

Hamble's Reading Passport

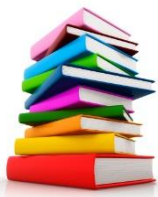

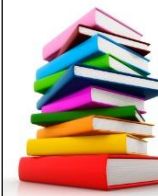

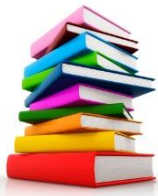

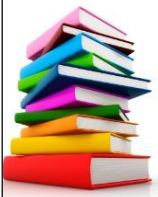

*The more that you read, the more you will know.
The more that you learn, the more you will grow! –
Dr Seuss.*

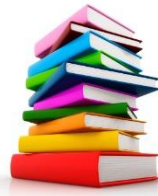

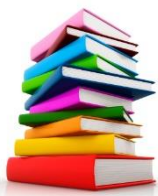

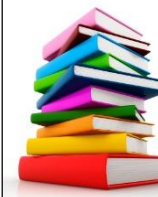

Here you will find a list of books that it would be great for children to read during their time at Hamble Primary School. Some of these books will be read within our curriculum. This means that every child can tick some books off the list – even if they struggle to read independently. The books do get progressively harder as you work through, but please choose what you feel is appropriate for your child or encourage them to do so.

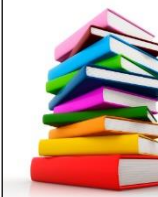

The books get progressively harder as you move through but we recognize that not all children are the same and some may need more support or challenge than others. We hope that you will enjoy reading some of these with your child as lots of them are available via our school library or our SORA E-Library. You may also wish to use this as a reason to visit one of our local libraries too! The teachers will also monitor which of these the children have read within the classrooms however we are only encouraging the children to read them, there will be no ‘consequence’ for not having done so.

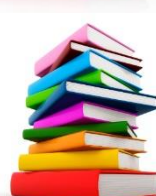

At Hamble, we pride ourselves on showing diversity through the stories and texts that we use. You should find that there is a wide range of diversity within these books but please remember that we use many other diverse stories at school too, for example within PSHE lessons, our assemblies or provision within the classrooms – such as our rainbow book boxes. Again, please do not feel obligated to buy these books yourself unless you so wish. You should find that they are available at school or through our e-book platforms.

We hope that the children will enjoy reading these books for pleasure and feel accomplished ticking them off the list as they go. There are many more book recommendations available to you, such as the ‘100 books to read before you leave Year 6’ list and many, if not all, of our teachers are keen readers too!

All of the staff would love to hear about what the children have been reading and if you think there is anything else brilliant that you’d like to share please let us know.
